The output power is 150 watts.

Radio Omega has been logged using 6276 khz. on 15th, 22nd and 29th. May. These loggings have all been made between 10.0 and 11.0 BST. The programming is mainly in Swedish, and on one occasion a female deejay has been heard presenting an oldies programme.

The transmitter is home-made and has an input of 75 watts. The aerial is a dipole, running south-north. Reception reports are promptly verified with an attractive QSL Card and information, if sent to Haartstrasse 62, 4300 Essen II, West Germany.

Tower Radio has been heard fairly regularly on 6265, 6240 and now on their new channel of 6215 khz. The station plan to broadcast every second sunday of the month, following this schedule: IO-II Dave Caine, II-I2 Roger St. John with Mailbag & 'DX' News, I2-I Freddy Archer.

The station uses 100 watts, which is fed into a longwire aerial. Plans are also underway to make transmissions on the 75 metre band. These tests should be on Saturday nights from 24.00 CET.

Chief DJ' Roger St. John should be familiar to all ABC England listeners. He was the original founder of the station, when they were using only 7 watts ! Tower's new mailing address is c/o I3 The Chase, Crawley, Sussex.

Radio Europe Int., heard using 6240 on May 8th, proved to be the test name for ABC Germany. ABC made their first official broadcast from IO.30 BST on June I2th. The power was 125 watts, from a home-made transmitter. This was fed into a marconi aerial.

The studio equipment consists of the following: Decks-3 turntables (Braun PS 500, Lenco L 78 and a Dual I229). Taperecorders-2 professional Revox recorders for the playing and recording of jingles. On 22nd. May two Radio Atlantis' were heard with different but parallel broadcasts. The first station was heard in Germany on 6240 at 09.42 GMT and announced the IBA address at PO.Box 512, D-4440 Rheine, West Germany.

Freak Radio broadcast a special Dutch Pirate Top 100 on 29th. May. The transmission was logged between 13.00 BST and 19.05 BST on 6225 khz.

The idea for the Top 100 came from an Amsterdam pirate. This year they decided to compile their second chart in conjunction with the Free Radio Magazine. A special programme was produced and broadcast by various stations on MW, FM and SW.

Reports for any of these transmissions should be sent to the Free Radio Magazine, PO.Box IO252, Amsterdam, Holland. Reporters will receive a copy of the chart and a special sticker. Incidentally, number one was "Child in Time" by Deep Purple.

Radio Partisan was heard on two occasions since FRW 4, on 6250 khz. Broadcasts are from IO.00 BST to II.00 BST. Recently, interference has been caused by R.N.I

Radio Valentine Story 6250

Radio Valentine is arguably one of Europe's best short-wave stations. Broadcasts started in December 1973. Spasmodic transmissions were made with 10 watts on 1178 khz. At the time programme quality was extremely poor and without variation. In September 1974 two Disco DJ's Hardy and Wolfgang Brandes joined and more professional broadcasts began to be made on 227 metres. Monthly transmissions followed, but still Valentine met with very little listener response. Therefore the transmitter was rebuilt and the power increased to 30 watts. 1196 khz. was chosen as the frequency and the famous "Offenburg" address was used for the first time.

This new style brought about a complete change, and a steady listenership of devotees tuned to the station's cheerful transmissions which were to be found next to Radio Mi Amigo. With this new-found popularity the threat of GPO activity increased. Due to this, mobile transmissions began during February 1975.

In March that year a short-wave transmitter became available and it was decided to experiment with simultaneous transmissions on both bands. After a few tests this was found to be technically inefficient and a decision had to be made as to which service would be dropped.

"All Star Radio" was the name chosen for a series of test broadcasts on 6230 khz. These proved very successful and it was therefore decided to start regular 48 m.b transmissions under the original name of Radio Valentine. At that time the short-wave transmitter had an output of 50 watts, but before the station closed the power was increased to a 'claimed' 1 KW, in reality 225 watts. Transmissions went out in English, Dutch and German between 11.00 and 16.00, on every first Sunday of the month.

After many successful transmissions Radio Valentine decided to seek publicity. For this reason it was announced that broadcasts were being made offshore from a boat—the MS Amsterdam ! It was also said that a 1 KW t.x had been installed as well as a studio from which live broadcasts were to be made.

However these claims soon faded when taped programmes started to run fast and long delays were incurred during the switching over of tapes. These were not the only troubles. The transmitter developed faults which resulted in broadcasts being heard on 6210 and 6290 as well as their 'announced' frequency of 6250 khz.

However the end of the road was growing near. An attempted raid forced an early closedown on 7th. November after warnings from station lookouts that the GPO were in the area. On 5th. December broadcasts resumed, but these were again forced to close by another, this time successful raid. All the station's valuable equipment was lost, including a studio belonging to DJ Johnnie O'Brian, valued at 10,000 Deutschmarks (£ 2,500). The final transmission was made during the following month on 6265 khz. During this broadcast, listeners were thanked for their loyal support throughout Valentine's long history. It was said they hoped to become legal and return with a new callsign in the future.

Valentine was back in the news recently, when rumours spread saying that transmissions would be made through Radio Andorra, as had their predecessors World Music Radio several months earlier.

The latest accurate news we have is from chief-DJ Johnnie O'Brian himself. In a letter to our reporter he said that the station hopes to return shortly. It is being planned to broadcast daily from 5.00 am until 7.00 pm with programming in three major European languages. The power will also be increased to a kilowatt. Johnnie added that for obvious reasons he was unable to give the location but hinted it would surprise many people.

What the exact plans are we do not know, but we can only hope that Radio Valentine will return to the air !

 13.30-14.15 Wolfgang Brandes' Music Machine (German).
 14.15-15.00 Hardy's Top Ten.

Studio equipment was: Three studios which were equipped with Lenco turntables, Uher and Grundig tape recorders, Spotmaster professional jingle machines, echo set and dynamic compressor.

That dear lady, who probably has the nicest smile in the land, had her Silver Jubilee approaching, so the least we could do was celebrate in one of the two ways we know how (no, not drinking) by broadcasting!

It may seem hard to believe, but the idea arose only a week before the Jubilee in the most unlikely (or in our case THE most likely) a pub! After a few pints and thirty or so minutes later, we decided upon a name for the station - JUBILEE SOUNDS, corny eh!

During the remaining days leading up to the broadcast, both Steve the engineer & myself spent endless hours repairing the transmitters which were both in a decrepid state, not having been used for some time.

Eventually the big day arrived, at about 9 am I saw the FM antenna, which had been blown back and forth in the strong winds the night before. If anyone or anything felt like a trip to the doctor it was certainly that aerial.

I'm glad to say that apart from a few intermittent breaks early in the morning, the FM transmissions ran quite smoothly. The medium-wave on the other hand seemed to be cursed by Mr. Gotts!

We had various technical troubles, an attack by vandals and awful weather apart from a regular ailment (in my case) lack of sleep the night before and an awful hangover! Eventually it was decided to switch the medium-wave off as it was causing more trouble than it was worth.

One very noticeable thing about the broadcast was that even though the audience response wasn't great, most of it was through the FM part of the transmission, in fact 90% This has prompted us to seriously consider starting FM broadcasts on a regular basis, perhaps monthly or even weekly.

If you are willing to give up a few hours a week to join the station (It's beginning to sound like Caroline already aaaagh!) then please don't hesitate to write to our address below.

Of course the broadcasts (IF they come) will be high quality and of a very high professional standard, after all we became respectable citizens on Monday June 7th. 1977,

Best of British,
Andy Allman

Valentine Latest

Radio Valentine was raided at aprox. 11.30 GMT on 5th. December 1976 by the German PTT. It was ironic that this took place on their third birthday !

Since an earlier raid on Radio Gloria International, the Valentine crew were all well aware of the danger involved, and therefore they introduced a security system similar to that of ABC England. This however failed because the PTT officials were approaching in a seemingly 'civilian' limousine at first. The four tracking cars also carried out their observations from a safe distance. All the Valentine staff escaped even though the roads were immediately closed by local police. The transmitter gear was later found by German PTT, but confiscated by the Belgian police, much to their surprise.

Ironically Johnnie O'Brian's studio gear worth £ 2,500 was confiscated, although the programmes were not being broadcast live.

Valentine made their final broadcast on the 2nd. January 1977 on 6265 khz. between 09.30 and 11.00 GMT. The signal suffered as a lower power 30 watt tx. with poor modulation was being used.

After this forced closure, plans were put into action so that RVI could return to the air on a legal basis. The future is still uncertain as negotiations have not been concluded. The station hopes to begin again on medium-wave, short-wave and possibly FM too !

The short-wave transmissions will be on the 48 metre band and the output to be used will be 1 KW. As soon as the station proves successful on the most important medium-wave band, powers will be increased continually.

Johnnie O'Brian reckons that the station will not be able to start before Spring 1978. Broadcasts will take place daily from either 05.00 or 06.00 until 19.00 or 20.00 and possibly from 00.00 onwards. Programmes are being planned in English, German and Dutch.

Johnnie can't really reveal the country in which they will be located—that will be a big surprise ! At present a disco run by Hardy and Wolfgang Brandes is giving part of the necessary backing.

A word on studio equipment: Studio one has been rebuilt at Johnnie's home. He has a 10 channel mixer as well as record decks, spotmasters etc. Studio three is at the Disco and is of a professional standard.

I'm sure everyone will join me in wishing the Valentine crew the very best and all success for their project. We all look forward to hearing them on the radio waves !

Finally, my thanks to Johnnie for all this interesting information which was really appreciated. You can still write to Radio Valentine, enclosing return postage, at Code 41, P.O. Box 1823, D-7600 Offenburg, West Germany.

Ian Biggar.

H A M P S H I R E F R E E R A D I O N E W S :

A new station called "Free Hampshire Radio" was heard in Southampton on 25/5/77 at aprox. 4.00 PM. The transmission was being made on Radio Caroline's old frequency of 259 metres, 1187 khz. The modulation was superb on both speech and records, although the power was believed to have been in the region of 10-15 watts.

The format consisted of mainly Judge Dread records. "Free Hampshire Radio" jingles were also aired. The deejay staff consisted of only two females.

Broadcasts were terminated at 6.00 PM. No address or phone number was given out.

LONDON MUSIC RADIO

LMR have recently started their summer programmes which features new deejays Chris Eliot, Rob Lancing and Andy Ayres. Chris began broadcasting on Radio Jackie in 1973 and made a name for himself because of his hilarious 'Cats Whisker' Programme with the Black Printz. Later he started Radio Sutch with the Printz, concentrating on the Disco scene after Sutch's closure.

Rob Lancing joined LMR a while ago, but was forced to stop his programme until recently. Andy Ayres is the only new name, he came from a hospital radio station. LMR say that they are always on the lookout for new staff, and applications and audition tapes should be sent to LMR c/o 19 Newport Court, London WC2.

On the subject of Radio Sutch, Record Mirror reports that Screaming Lord Sutch (the pioneer of Radio Sutch from Shivering Sands) will be at the Flashback 67' convention. It is also planned to make a special broadcast in the London area on MW & FM.

AN ARTICLE ON RADIO JACKIE FROM "RECORD MIRROR"

Jackie — the lady of the woods

IT'S A sunny summer Sunday morning and somewhere in South London the busy main road traffic drives by oblivious of what's going on in a nearby clump of bushes.

No, it's not that, but something equally naughty — Radio Jackie, Britain's longest surviving land based radio pirate takes to the air again.

For the past eight years they've broadcast most Sundays and this one goes without a hitch and there is no visit from the Post Office officials who occasionally come along to try and close the station down again.

There have been many raids on Jackie and station operatives have been heavily fined, imprisoned in one case, and had their transmitting gear confiscated time after time, yet still it continues.

For seven hours their DJs put put a bright Top

40 format linked with professional chit chat and DJs, in a manner reminiscent of the sixties offshore pop pirates.

They have one aim, to provide 'local' radio, ie they believe each area is capable of having its very own radio service to provide relevant up to the minute news and info and requests etc.

Some DJs have used the station to get experience before going on to established stations (though the Jackie staff don't like that sort), others on a personal ego trip and some are strictly summer jocks, who don't mind being a pirate in the warm weather but aren't too keen on sitting in the cold, damp woods in the winter.

But the majority are confirmed believers in what they are doing, fanatical to the point of giving up every Sunday to man the station, and most of the money for records and equipment and so on comes out of their own pockets.

The set-up (known as a 'rig' to the radio bods), is remarkably simple. A cassette player with pre-recorded shows is connected up to a small transmitter, which uses a couple of car batteries for power. A wire from the transmitter goes up to the aerial, a length of wire strung between two trees. A qualified PO detector can spot the aerial from some distance and if one of the many station lookouts spots someone suspicious the station is easily disconnected and the pirates make a hasty retreat with the transmitter.

Shows are pre-recorded in Jackie's own studios and cassettes are changed every hour, on the hour. They operate from several ever changing sites South of London and have a range of up to 20 miles.

Jackie's first broadcast was in 1989 when on March 30 a two and a half hour programme went out beginning a saga that has come to play an important part in Britain's erratic free radio history.

The station use a medium wave transmitter at present, but at one time had a VHF service as well, but found that this didn't go down too well with IBA stations.

Jackie made history by becoming the first radio station to be heard in the House of Commons when questions were asked about the station. The Hon members of Parliament were a bit uncertain about procedure when it came to playing music in the hallowed hall, but hear it they did.

Jackie has received considerable publicity in the press and features with many snippets on the many court cases involving the station and features in papers from The Esher Times, in a recent story in The Observer. Like all good radio stations they have all the usual merchandise — stickers, T-shirts and so on, plus associated discs.

They have no intention of closing down until their goal is reached — real local radio. Until that is achieved the pirates will broadcast every Sunday for seven hours and more if possible.

Surprisingly, one of their main problems is not, in fact, the visits from the PO man, but a more pressing problem is catching up with them — with the advancement of Dutch elm disease they're running out of trees to string their aerial from!

Going on the road

JUST DOWN the dial from Radio Jackie you'll find a newer addition to the capital's illegal broadcasters.

London Music Radio broadcasts for six hours every Sunday in the South East playing mainly pop interspersed with familiar jingles and news on the hour.

Latest DJs on the station are Andy Ayres and Rob Lancing. Former programme director Richard Thompson has left the station due to other commitments and his place has been filled by Cliff Osbourne, who now looks after programming in their new studios. Last month saw the launching of London Music Radio's own roadshow to support their summertime broadcasts.
